Canada’s ‘Corrupt’ Court Challenges Program is Back

Canadian Prime Minister Justin Trudeau’s Liberal government announced Tuesday that it is reviving and expanding the controversial Court Challenges Program (CCP), which uses taxpayer dollars to fund groups who want to change existing laws by re-writing the Canadian Charter of Rights. The previous Conservative government scrapped the program, which has been called “one of the most corrupt, discriminatory and biased programs developed in Canada.”

Canadian Government Preparing To Silence Anyone Who Criticizes Islam

Blocking free speech from any criticism of Islam under the guise of Islamophobia is sure to have a chilling effect on free speech, and only in support of a single religion. This is how political Islam plans to grow, by manipulating the laws against discrimination to shield itself from criticism. It has worked across Europe where opinions critical of Islam are either silenced or prosecuted, and it is now threatening to engulf Canada in its warm, suffocating embrace.

At funeral for Quebec mosque shooting victims, Trudeau calls for 'leading the fight against injustice'

A mass shooting that killed six men at a Quebec mosque is a grim reminder that hateful words seeking to exclude or demean others can have tragic consequences, Prime Minister Justin Trudeau told a funeral service Friday for three of the victims. "It's high time those behind these messages — whether they are politicians, radio or TV hosts or other public personalities — realize the harm their words can cause," Trudeau said, prompting a wave of applause. Wondering where the Canadian flags are?

Questions Remain As Shifting Narrative, Conflicting Testimony Indicates Cover Up in Quebec Terror Incident

The insistence of the Canadian government that the Quebec mosque shooting was perpetrated by a "lone wolf" stands in opposition to statements made by eyewitnesses at the event and information about the number of weapons confiscated by police after the tragedy. It also raises broader questions about Justin Trudeau's determination to prioritize the safety of the Canadian people

Muslim leaders ask for national day of remembrance to mark mosque shooting

A coalition of Canadian Muslim leaders, led by Ihsaan Gardee, the executive director of the National Council of Canadian Muslims (formerly CAIR-Canada), wants the federal government to recognize the day of the Quebec City mosque shooting as a national day of remembrance and action against Islamophobia. Gardee called on lawmakers to turn that concern into action. The letter outlined concrete steps that all three levels of government can take to curb systemic racism, and more specifically, Islamophobia.

A call for a "National Day of Remembrance and Action on Islamophobia"

National Council of Canadian Muslims (formerly CAIR-CAN) urges the Parliament to declare January 29 as the "National Day of Remembrance and Action on Islamophobia". NCCM and its partners also call on all MPs to support the "anti-Islamophobia" motion, tabled by MP Iqra Khalid, to be voted on in Parliament February 16, 2017.

Quebec imam prays: "O Allah, destroy the accursed Jews...O Allah, kill them one by one"

Those are among the regular prayers being recited at Al Andalous Islamic Center in Montreal by Imam Sayed AlGhitawi. He also pleaded with "Allah to support the mujahideen (Muslims who engage in jihad) in Palestine and to inflict total destruction on the Jews." There are others like him who are being permitted in Canada to spread messages of violence and conquest, while Canada is pushing through another anti-Islamophobia motion in Parliament that takes aim at free speech, specifically at any criticism of Islam. ACT for Canada published an important report on the motions, including our coverage at Jihad Watch; see here.

Canadian Immigration Minister Will Do 'Opposite' Of U.S.

"As more and more countries are taking a different approach, of closing their borders, or not being open to new people or ideas, we've chosen the opposite approach, which is being open to ideas, being open to people, being open to talent, being open to skills and investments and we'll continue to have that tradition," he said. Hussen was born in Somalia, one of the countries subject to Trump's travel freeze, and has increasingly been strident in his criticism of U.S. policy.

Stop calling feminists 'Islamophobic' for fighting for the right of Muslim women not to cover themselves by Lise Ravary

"Since 9/11 some of us, including politicians in Quebec, have been obsessed by what certain Muslim women choose to wear. Fashion meets bigotry. Why anybody who is not Muslim cares is beyond my grasp." These lines, written and read on the air last week by Michael Enright, the oh-so-PC bespectacled and bow tied host of CBC radio's Sunday Edition, sent me in a tailspin. Islamic head and face coverings for women are a hot button in Quebec, more so than in the rest of Canada, because they're seen to represent inequality. It always makes me angry in the summer heat to see a woman covered head to toe while her husband wears shorts and a T-shirt.

Backlash against Trudeau's Syrian Refugee Policy after multiple young girls sexually assaulted in Edmonton Water Park

Water park sex attacks on young infidel girls at public pools are rampant in Europe post-invasion. Why wouldn't Canada take precautionary measures, or do Prime Minister Trudeau and his left wing Islamic apologists believe our daughters should be sexually sacrificed on the altar of dhimmitude and sharia? And if so, why? It was in Edmonton, Canada that our honor killing awareness ads were removed because four or five Muslims complained that calling attention to Islamic honor killings was Islamophobic. Clearly Muslim supremacists have been imposing their mores in Edmonton for some time now.

Is Justin Trudeau 'Trumpable'?

The propaganda in this country is relentless, supporting a growing welfare regime, Muslim immigration, judicial activism, and identity politics favoring "gender equity," priming a dysfunctional aboriginal (aka "First Nations") clientage at enormous cost to the public treasury, and promoting a fraudulent "rape culture" and "diversity"-mad academy rapidly going bankrupt in more ways than one. At the same time, the campaign of vilification targeting public figures not in step with the reigning ideological orthodoxy proceeds without intermission.

Raheel Raza Hopes To Be The Muslim Extremists Hate Most

Activism is never easy – you go against the flow and the status quo. It's doubly challenging if you happen to be a woman. I do this work for the future of the next generation. This is for a better world for my children and grandchildren. In a way I am very spiritual and I believe that each one of us is answerable to the creator about what we did when the world was burning. I can sleep at night knowing I am doing my part. The backlash against me is a very small drop in the ocean of work that has to be done, so I continue despite the challenges.

IMMIGRATION- MIGRATION

Are these Pennsylvania Christians wearing hijabs in solidarity with sharia-promoting Muslims?

If the CWS workers are so enamored of Islamic culture, let them go to Syria to help people firsthand, as naïve aid worker Kayla Mueller did, spending the remainder of her short life as a sex slave. But don't try to import that hostile, misogynist culture in to America and then tell us you're acting for the good of mankind. A halt to refugee arrivals meant a halt to some federal funding, which meant budget cuts. A skeletal staff? How about a zombie staff, because their mindless attentiveness to bringing sharia adherents here on a conveyor belt is harming our society?

Islam and the Propaganda War In Print and Online

The times are very different from those of the Cold War, and print publication is no longer the main way to disseminate information. Now it is a question of posting online, and reaching audiences of tens of millions rather than tens of thousands, a reach that could never have been imagined even twenty years ago. But it will still be up to private parties to ensure that these Islamic texts, and the critical commentaries on them, and the major works by articulate ex-Muslims and other major critics of Islam (including Robert Spencer, as the prime mover of Jihad Watch), are faithfully translated into nearly twenty languages, including the eight major languages of Muslim peoples, and then making sure that all of these translations are attractively presented and easy to find online, as part of what is already the first great cyberwar.

Calling Trump a Nazi is its own kind of Holocaust denial

President Trump has done some rash, bad things since he took power three weeks ago. But his critics have done something rasher. Something even more bereft of reason than Trump's orders and tweets. Something more likely to stoke prejudice. They've reduced the Holocaust to a meme. They have used and abused the greatest crime in history to underscore their contempt for Trump, comparing him to Hitler, talking of his travel ban in the same breath as the Nazis' persecution of Jews, warning darkly that 'we know how this ends'.

Annihilating Art and Civilization

When a jihadist attacked the Louvre Museum in Paris he intended to do more than kill people. He carried paint bombs. His intent was to destroy the finest art of Western civilization. Why art? Art that involves animals or humans is forbidden in the Sharia. Art is the work of Kafirs and is part of jahiliyya (civilization of ignorance). Islam annihilates a civilization piece by piece and leaves nothing of its native roots. Civilizational jihad destroys the very cultural history of every nation it comes into contact with. We see the jihadist annihilation of museums and ancient architecture for the same reason. This civilizational war has been this way for 1400 years.

A beautiful friendship by Caroline Glick

Next week can be the beginning of a new era in Israel's relations with the US. But to make the most of this unprecedented opportunity, Israel needs to recognize its role as America's ally. It must take the necessary steps to perform that role, and it must free the administration from the shackles of the PLO while securing its long-term interests in Judea and Samaria unilaterally, and quietly.

The Database President Donald Trump Must Secure by Philip Haney

Just before that Christmas Day attack, in early November 2009, I was ordered by my superiors at the Department of Homeland Security to delete or modify several hundred records of individuals tied to designated Islamist terror groups like Hamas from the important federal database, the Treasury Enforcement Communications System (TECS). These types of records are the basis for any ability to “connect dots.” Every day, DHS Customs and Border Protection officers watch entering and exiting many individuals associated with known terrorist affiliations, then look for patterns.

The evidence against Obama and his ties to radical Islam keeps growing even after he left office. Now we have bombshell proof he was actively betraying America in office. “The work in America is a kind of grand jihad in eliminating and destroying the western civilization from within and sabotaging its miserable house by their hands and the hands of the believers so it is eliminated and Islam religion is made victorious over all other religions” said Brigitte Gabriel.

Congressional Republicans must take the lead in cleaning house. If they cannot do so, President Trump must step in. At stake are the security of our nation and the safety of our troops. Trojan Horses in Women's Movement by Khadija Khan

It must be so convenient, while marching on Washington DC, to advocate that other women — far away — be genitally mutilated, married off in childhood, and domestically beaten and violated — and all the while, in the safe confines of Washington, to stay silent on issues of truly massive abuse: floggings; acid burnings; chopping off limbs or heads, or burning, drowning or burying people alive. Bring Back the House Un-American Activities Committee

A reborn House of Un-American Activities Committee (HUAC) could investigate the role of foreign elements such as the Muslim Brotherhood, George Soros and the European Union in influencing our political system and promoting subversive messages.
